Deputy Director for S&T Pat Falcone celebrates the holidays with employees who are on offsite assignments.

Senior leaders from Lawrence Livermore and Los Alamos national laboratories recently hosted a holiday celebration for staff members assigned to U.S. government departments and agencies in the Washington, D.C. area. These colleagues provide vital subject-matter expertise in service to the country, which also benefits the laboratories. Off-site assignments are continually being offered. Employees interested in this opportunity can learn more at LLNL's Offsite Assignments website.
